

PRACTICAL PRAYERS

Forty prayers for the moments of the day — with Swamiji's sangha hymns

NINE MOMENTS · FOUR PRAYERS EACH

ब्रह्मार्पणं ब्रह्म हविर् ब्रह्माग्नौ ब्रह्मणा हुतम्

BHAGAVAD GĪTĀ 4.24 — THE MEAL PRAYER

Why these prayers Swami Lakshmanjoo compiled his Wisdom verses in the summer of 1987 and told his devotees: "These verses are for your daily recitation. Maybe sometime you will experience these stages." Four of the six hymns in his recitation appendix live in these pages — the Krama Stotra, the Anuttarāṣṭikā, the Bhairava Stotra and the Dehastha — alongside the mealtime yajña he taught, the breath-japa of the Vijñāna Bhairava, and the dawn-dusk junction of the Tantrāloka: "the Lord must be worshipped at the point of the meeting of day and night." Nine sections, one for each moment the day turns. Thirty-six prayers, each facing its explanation — when to do it, how, why, and what it does. Nothing here needs belief. The verses were built to be said — at the sink, at the desk, in the queue, in the dark.

PRACTICAL PRAYERS

Reading a spread Each prayer sits beside its explanation. The left page is for the mouth — Devanagari big enough to fill the eye, the sound beneath it, the sense beneath that. The right page is for the mind: what the verse is actually doing, how to perform it, and what it is for. Read the guide once when you meet the prayer. After that, only the prayer page matters — you'll know what lies behind it. Take the one the day hands you: waking, bathing, social, work, food, waiting, sick, positive, evening. Every source is linked from its guide — the translations come from our Kashmir Shaiva corpus, verified against its witnesses.

DECODING THE VERSES — THE AXIOMS (1 OF 2)

Śiva — consciousness that is self-lit: knowing that needs no second thing in order to be known.

Why: any knower requiring another knower regresses forever; the chain of proof must end in something self-evidencing. That self-evidencing is what the texts name Śiva. (svaprakāśa)

Śakti — Śiva knowing himself: power not as muscle but as the act of shining.

Why: "self-lit" means lit by itself — that "by" is Śakti. Flame and burning are one word's two halves.

Brahman (in the meal verse) — read as Śiva in all four places: offering, oblation, fire, goal.

Why: Gītā 4.24 names them all "brahman"; if any one differed, the chain would break into parts — one substance makes the meal a self-offering. (Lakshmanjoo, mealtime teaching)

So'ham / haṃsa — the mantra already running: out sa, in ha.

Why: Vijñāna Bhairava 155 — the jīva recites it 21,600 times a day without trying; so real practice adds no sound, it only shortens the gap (Swamiji's tuṭi-method) until you notice it.

Pañcākṣara — naḥ·maḥ·śi·vā·ya = the five acts: creation, preservation, dissolution, concealment, grace.

Why: nothing in experience falls outside those five — so five sounds cover the whole cycle, which is why one mantra can be the entire practice.

Anātha — the refuge that asks for no qualifications.

Why: a protector requiring worthy applicants is a merchant; "refuge of the refugeless" (Bhairavastava 1) removes the condition — grace that cannot be refused.

DECODING THE VERSES — THE AXIOMS (2 OF 2)

Anupāya — the no-means.

Why: if every method — contemplation, japa, visualization — can be dropped and recognition still arrives, method was never the cause. Anuttarāṣṭikā 1 simply lists what must be set down.

Pratyabhijñā — recognition, not achievement: you don't come to know Śiva; you notice you never stopped.

Why: bondage must be real for liberation to be sought — yet if it were real, no freedom could ever be felt; you do feel the difference, so bondage is a misreading, and what corrects a misreading is recognition.

Svātantrya — freedom: the cause that needs no cause.

Why: every chain of causation stops somewhere or loops; the texts place the stop at freedom — the one that acts without being acted on.

Pūjā — offering as re-cognition of what is already there.

Why: the litany (Mahopadeśaviṃśatikā 13–20) proves the Lord needs nothing from the rite — what the rite changes is the offerer. The worship is the worshipper, turning.

Bhakti — the method that is not a method.

Why: Śivastotrāvalī 1 describes a devotee attained without meditation or recitation — devotion works by alignment, not technique; that is why these guides give feelings, not repetitions.

Māyā — the world's making-power, seen from underneath.

Why: the texts never deny the world — "the world, both real and unreal" (Mahopadeśaviṃśatikā 11) — they deny only the view from below that takes the making for the made.

Homage to the World-Formed

प्रपञ्चोत्तीर्णरूपाय नमस्ते विश्वमूर्तये । सदादिव्यप्रकाशाय स्वात्मनेऽनन्तशक्तये

prapañcottīrṇarūpāya namaste viśvamūrtaye | sadādivyaprakāśāya svātmane'nantaśaktaye homage to the form that has crossed beyond the manifest — to the self of the world's form; to the ever-divinely-shining, to the self that is unending power.

THE GUIDE

Homage to the World-Formed

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.1 · V.1

The first word of the day: bowing to what was here before you woke.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Three appositions do the work: he has passed beyond the manifest yet IS the world's form; he always shines with divine light; he is your own self and consists of inexhaustible power. The logic is identity, not distance — you salute the world-form because you address what already shines.

HOW TO USE IT

Sitting up before your feet touch the floor. Three clauses, three slow bows of the head. Feel the room as svātmane'nantaśaktaye — not out there but as your own body's brightness. Don't visualise a figure; visualise light that has nowhere to go. One round, then stand.

The Body-Temple Offering

देहो देवालयः प्रोक्तः स्वात्मा देवः सनातनः । त्यजेदज्ञाननिर्माल्यं सोऽहं भावेन पूजयेत्

deho devālayaḥ proktaḥ svātmā devaḥ sanātanaḥ | tyajedajñānanirmālyaṃ so'haṃ bhāvena pūjayet the body is declared god's temple, the own self the eternal god. casting off the sweepings of ignorance, let him worship with the feeling: i-am-he.

THE GUIDE

The Body-Temple Offering

DEHASTHA V.1 · V.1

The morning rite in one verse: the body is the shrine, so'ham is the worship.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Dehastha compresses a whole pūjā into four clauses. Temple, God, sweeping, worship: a temple needs cleaning before its God is honoured, and the 'sweepings of ignorance' are the ordinary assumption that the body is mere matter. The worshipper and the worshipped collapse — so'ham bhāvena, with the feeling I-am-He.

HOW TO USE IT

Wake and stay horizontal. Sweep an imaginary hand from head to toe three times — that is casting off the sweepings. Then place attention at the heart and let so'haṃ, so'haṃ rest with the breath for twelve rounds. The feeling: warmth at the chest, not a thought — the body as lit. Then rise: the day is the pūjā.

The Three States as His Rays

जाग्रतस्वप्नसुषुप्त्याद्या धारयंश्च निजाः कलाः ।
स्वेच्छया भासि नटवन् निष्कलोऽसि च तत्त्वतः

jāgratasvapnasuṣuptyādyā dhārayaṃśca nijāḥ kalāḥ | svecchayā bhāsi naṭavan niṣkalo'si ca tattvataḥ waking, dreaming, deep sleep and the rest — you hold them as your own portions. By your will you shine like an actor, yet you are partless in truth.

The Three States as His Rays

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.10 · V.10

The three states are costumes; the one who shines is partless.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse splits experience from experiencer: the states are kalāḥ, portions or costumes — things held; the holding is by svecchā, your own will; and the actor is partless though he plays many parts. Play and partlessness are asserted in one breath, so no state can claim you.

HOW TO USE IT

Recite on waking, naming each state as you come out of it: 'that was a costume.' The actor-idea is literal — you played sleep for seven hours. Feel the partlessness as the fact that nothing about you has edges. Keep it memorised: the fastest exit from a bad dream.

The Play of the Dawning

उदयावभासचर्वणलीलां विश्वस्य या करोत्यनिशम्। आनन्दभैरवीं तां विमर्शरूपामहं वन्दे

udayāvabhāsacarvaṇalīlāṃ viśvasya yā karotyaniśam | ānandabhairavīṃ tāṃ vimarśarūpāmahaṃ vande the play of the dawning, shining forth, and chewing over of the universe, which she performs unceasingly — bliss-bhairavī, her, whose form is reflection, i praise.

THE GUIDE

The Play of the Dawning

DEHASTHA V.6 · V.6

The dawn is her play: she chews the universe into light, unceasingly.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Bhairavī's līlā is udaya-avabhāsa-carvaṇa — the dawning, shining and chewing of the universe, performed without pause; her form is vimarśa, reflective awareness. The morning light is not physics but her appetite: she is already chewing the day into being when you open your eyes.

HOW TO USE IT

At first light, before anything else: watch the room brighten and name it her chewing. One line. Feeling-tip: the day is being eaten into existence for you; you arrive mid-meal. Gratitude, not effort.

Bathing

water & body

What Bath for the Stainless?

निर्मलस्य कुतः स्नानं वस्त्रं विश्वोदरस्य च। निर्लेपस्य कुतो गन्धो रम्यस्याभरणं कुतः

nirmalasya kutaḥ snānaṃ vastraṃ viśvodarasya ca | nirlepasya kuto gandho ramyasyābharaṇaṃ kutaḥ for the stainless, what bath? for the world-bellied, what garment? for the unanointed, what scent? for the lovely, what jewel?

What Bath for the Stainless?

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.14 · V.14

Shower, towel, scent, jewel — all addressed to one who needs none.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The litany names the bathroom itself: snāna (bath), vastra (garment), gandha (scent), bharaṇa (jewel) — each with a deity stripped of the lack it serves: stainless, world-bellied (all-containing), unanointed, lovely. What looks like futility is the precise applicability of each gift: you bathe the unblemished because bathing is what love does, not what dirt requires.

HOW TO USE IT

In the shower: name each item as you use it — water for the stainless, towel for the world-bellied, scent for the unanointed. The mismatch is the smile. Feeling-tip: the water becomes an offering rather than a chore; three items, three small bows.

This Body for Worship

अन्तरुल्लसदच्छाच्छभक्तिपीयूषपोषितम् / भवत्पूजोपयोगाय शरीरम् इदम् अस्तु मे

antarullasadacchācchabhaktipīyūṣapoṣitam / bhavatpūjopayogāya śarīram idam astu me may this body of mine — nourished by the clear, bright nectar of devotion rising within — be fit only for your worship.

This Body for Worship

UTPALADEVA, ŚIVASTOTRĀVALĪ 17.26 · 17.26

The body leaves the water consecrated: today's uniform is worship.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The body is not renounced; it is consecrated. Nourished by the clear nectar of devotion rising in the heart (antar ullasad acchāccha-bhakti-pīyūṣa), it becomes fit for pūjā — and then it is the offering itself. This is the Trika answer to body-denial: the body is the Lord's instrument, and devotion makes it luminous.

HOW TO USE IT

Dressed, before leaving the bathroom: say it once and feel the freshly washed body as anointed rather than merely clean. The day ahead is the pūjā; the body is the instrument. Feeling-tip: a slight uprightness in the spine — the instrument picking itself up.

Waving-Lights for the Self-Shining

स्वयं प्रकाशमानस्य कुतो नीराजनं विभोः । वेदवाचामवेद्यस्य कुतः स्तोत्रं विधीयते

svayaṃ prakāśamānasya kuto nīrājanaṃ vibhoḥ | vedavācāmavedyasya kutaḥ stotraṃ vidhīyate whence waving-lights for the self-shining lord? how is a hymn enjoined for him whom the veda cannot say?

THE GUIDE

Waving-Lights for the Self-Shining

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.17 · V.17

The mirror, the lamp: he lights himself — so the light is for you.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Two paradoxes: an offering of light presupposes darkness in the recipient; speech presupposes an object speech can reach. The Lord is self-lit and beyond the Veda's words. The rite's use falls on the offerer — you wave the lamp so your own eyes open; you sing because the singing lights you.

HOW TO USE IT

At the bathroom mirror, hand raised with the light: you are the lamp-bearer, and the face that brightens is the audience. Hum, don't articulate — you have just honoured the Vedavācāmavedya. Feeling-tip: the chest brightens before the mirror does.

Pardon for the Unseen

पूर्णस्य दक्षिणा कुत्र नित्यतृप्तस्य तर्पणम्। विसर्जनं व्यापकस्याऽप्रत्यक्षस्य क्षमापणम्

pūrṇasya dakṣiṇā kutra nityatṛptasya tarpaṇam | visarjanaṃ vyāpakasyā'pratyakṣasya kṣamāpaṇam where is the fee for the full? libation for the ever-content? dismissal for the all-pervading? pardon for the unseen?

Pardon for the Unseen

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.19 · V.19

The ritual closes with forgiveness — and no account to settle.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The four closing rites: dakṣiṇā (fee), tarpaṇa (libation), visarjana (dismissal), kṣamāpaṇa (apology for faults) — all presuppose want, debt, departure and fault in one who is full, content, all-pervading and unseen. The kṣamāpaṇa for the apratyakṣa flips apology into recognition: you apologise to what was never absent.

HOW TO USE IT

Use it at the end of the bath as the day's closing already: one bow, weight the last word — pardon. The feeling is the end of accounting: no tally of errors, no debt. Guilt arrives, is named as one of the litany's items, and dissolves with the god it expected to offend.

The Speech-Goddess

स्वात्मप्रभां विधाय वाग्देवीं विषयकुसुमकॢप्तार्चः । प्रथमोन्मेषं गुरुम् अथ वन्दित्वा हृदयम् आविश्य

svātmaprabhāṃ vidhāya vāgdevīṃ viṣayakusumakḷptārcaḥ | prathamonmeṣaṃ gurum atha vanditvā hṛdayam āviśya having made the speech-goddess one's own light, with sense-flowers arranged as offering — bowing to the guru, first unfolding, then entering the heart.

The Speech-Goddess

BHAIRAVĀNUKARAṆA V.7 · BHAIR-P01 V.7

Before you speak: make vāk the light, not the weapon.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse sequences the art of speech: svātmaprabhāṃ vidhāya vāgdevīṃ — make the speech-goddess your own light; arrange the sense-flowers as the offering; bow to the guru, the first unfolding (prathamonmeṣa); then enter the heart. Speech is not emitted from the mouth but lit from the heart and offered with the senses.

HOW TO USE IT

Before a difficult conversation, a speech, a message you'll regret: one breath, hand on the throat. Make the speech a light — not a blade. Offering the sense-flowers means: don't weaponise what you've seen and heard. Then speak from the heart-entered place, not the throat.

Every Sound Is Mantra

शब्दः कश्चन यो मुखादुदयते मन्त्रः स लोकोत्तरः संस्थानं सुखदुःखजन्मवपुषो यत्कापि मुद्रैव सा । प्राणस्य स्वरसेन यत्प्रवहणं योगः स एवाद्भुतः शाक्तं धाम परं ममानुभवतः किन्नाम न भ्राजते

śabdaḥ kaścana yo mukhādudayate mantraḥ sa lokottaraḥ saṃsthānaṃ sukhaduḥkhajanmavapuṣo yatkāpi mudraiva sā | prāṇasya svarasena yatpravahaṇaṃ yogaḥ sa evādbhutaḥ śāktaṃ dhāma paraṃ mamānubhavataḥ kinnāma na bhrājate whatever sound arises from the mouth — that mantra is transcendent. whatever posture of the pleasure-pain-born body — that indeed is mudrā. whatever flowing of breath by its own rhythm — that indeed is wonderful yoga. the supreme śākta abode — while i experience, what indeed would not shine?

THE GUIDE

Every Sound Is Mantra

ANUBHAVANIVEDANA V.3 · ANU-P03 V.3

Every word out of your mouth is already a mantra. Use that.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Abhinavagupta's experience-report: any sound from the mouth is lokottara mantra — transcendent; any posture is mudrā; any breath-flow by its own rhythm is yoga. Nothing needs to be Sanskritic to be practice. The verse abolishes the distinction between talking and chanting, fidgeting and ritual, breathing and kriyā.

HOW TO USE IT

Use it after you've said something — ordinary, even stupid. That was mantra. The recognition flips the whole day: the meeting, the small talk, the complaint — all of it is mantra, mudrā, yoga, shining. Feeling-tip: the mouth becomes a temple; be careful what you put on the altar.

Enough of Difference-Talk

अलं भेदानुकथया त्वद्भक्तिरसचर्वणात्। सर्वमेकमिदं शान्तमिति वक्तुं च लज्जते

alaṃ bhedānukathayā tvadbhaktirasacarvaṇāt | sarvamekamidaṃ śāntamiti vaktuṃ ca lajjate enough of difference-talk — chewing the sap of devotion to you: all this is one, at peace; and even to say so feels shy.

11

THE GUIDE

Enough of Difference-Talk

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.8 · V.8

Knowing when to stop talking: the oneness embarrasses speech.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Bheda-anukathā, the narration of difference, is abandoned mid-chewing of bhakti-rasa: all is one, at peace. And even to say so feels shy (lajjate) — the verse guards non-duality from becoming a thesis. The oneness is so ordinary that stating it out loud is like announcing a family is at peace: true, and slightly vulgar.

HOW TO USE IT

Use it when an argument about views has you mid-sentence — or when you're about to explain your practice to someone who doesn't need it. Stop. The shyness is the right register. Feeling-tip: looking away slightly, a small heat in the face — let the body do the disarming.

When Your Words Are Not Heard

you speak not, o best-limbed one; you look not upon me, wretched as i am. my entreaty, made in many ways, you hear not; you come not into my mind. fallen amid the pit of the ocean of transmigration, i am mostly left unsupported — yet scripture truly declares you devoid of speech, sight, hearing, feet and the like!

THE GUIDE

When Your Words Are Not Heard

ABHINAVAGUPTA, PAÑCAŚLOKĪ 3 · PAN-P03

The complaint: you don't speak, look or hear — and scripture says you can't. Ouch.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Pañcaślokī 3 is the reproach: the devotee accuses Śiva of silence — no speech, no glance, no listening, no arrival in the mind — then undercuts himself with scripture's own claim that the Lord is devoid of speech, sight, hearing and feet. The complaint and the theology cancel: you're angry at a god who, by definition, never had a mouth to answer with.

HOW TO USE IT

Use it when you've spoken and nobody heard — human or divine. Say the whole complaint with feeling; the scripture-clause at the end is the punchline that dissolves it. Feeling-tip: the irritation turns to laughter mid-verse; that laugh is the prasāda.

Yoke the Mind

एवमेव परा पूजा सर्वावस्थासु सर्वदा। ऐक्यबुद्धया तु सर्वेशे मनो देवे नियोजयेत्

evameva parā pūjā sarvāvasthāsu sarvadā | aikyabuddhayā tu sarveśe mano deve niyojayet just so is the highest worship — in every state, at all times: with a mind of oneness, one should yoke the mind to god as the lord of all.

Yoke the Mind

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.20 · V.20

The instruction after the litany: work is the highest pūjā.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Parā pūjā is ritual re-specified: all states, all times instead of the fixed occasion, and aikyabuddhi — oneness-mindedness — instead of the duality of giver and gift. The verb is niyojayet, yoke: the mind is a draught-animal that must be hitched, and the yoke is identity. The desk becomes the temple by the hitching, not the décor.

HOW TO USE IT

Before opening the laptop: one line, then begin. The test for aikyabuddhi: the boundary of your skin thins. If it sharpens, you're thinking oneness, not yoking it — drop to the breath and restart. Each task is one yoke; re-hitch as often as needed.

so the devotee is told: become śiva and worship. you yourself are the essence of the body, purified by devotion's non-duality.

THE GUIDE

Achieve God in Activity

UTPALADEVA, ŚIVASTOTRĀVALĪ 1.14 · 1.14

Lakshmanjoo's work verse: find God in the activity, not by shunning it.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse (śivo bhūtvā yajeti) instructs: become Śiva and worship — and adds that the body's essence (vapuḥ sāraṃ) is refined by bhakti's advaya, non-duality. The gloss from the Academy: achieve God in the activity of the universe, not by shunning it; perceive him in each and every action of life. Work is the field, not the obstacle.

HOW TO USE IT

At the desk, when work feels like a distraction from practice: say it and reclassify. The spreadsheet, the email, the conversation — that is the worship. Feeling-tip: the task itself becomes slightly luminous; do it as offering, not as interruption.

I-Making Flowers

कुरुते भैरवपूजामनलदलस्थाऽभिमानकुसुमैर्या । नित्यमहङ्कृतिरूपां वन्दे तां शाम्भवीमम्बाम्

kurute bhairavapūjāmanaladalasthā'bhimānakusumairyā | nityamahaṅkṛtirūpāṃ vande tāṃ śāmbhavīmambām who performs bhairava's worship, standing in fire's petal, with flowers of i-making — ever of i-making form, i praise her, the mother śāmbhavī.

THE GUIDE

I-Making Flowers

DEHASTHA V.8 · V.8

Hand the work-ego over: the ahaṃkāra is the offering.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Śāmbhavī stands in the petal of fire and worships with abhimāna-kusuma — flowers of I-making: the sense of mine and I that is normally the problem. The rite converts the fault into the flower. At work, the 'I' that wants credit is not suppressed — it is picked and placed in the fire.

HOW TO USE IT

When the ego flares mid-task — pride, irritation at the colleague, hunger for recognition: see it as a flower, pick it, place it at the heart's fire. Three flowers are enough. Feeling-tip: relief, like putting down a bag; the fire (warmth at the solar plexus) confirms it.

When Your Form Expands

त्वत्स्वरूपे जृम्भमाणे त्वं चाहं चाखिलं जगत्। जाते तस्य तिरोधाने न त्वं नाहं न वै जगत्

tvatsvarūpe jṛmbhamāṇe tvaṃ cāhaṃ cākhilaṃ jagat | jāte tasya tirodhāne na tvaṃ nāhaṃ na vai jagat when your own form expands — you and i and the whole world. when its withdrawal is born — neither you, nor i, nor indeed the world.

When Your Form Expands

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.9 · V.9

Expansion and withdrawal: the world is his inhale and exhale.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Two movements: when svarūpa expands (jṛmbhamāṇe), you, I and the whole world appear together; when it withdraws (tirodhāne), none of the three remains. The verse relativises the entire workday — deadlines, colleagues, the self doing them — as one expansion of his form. Not nihilism: the expansion is real, and so is who expands it.

HOW TO USE IT

Use it at the overwhelm point — too much to do, the self tightening. Say it and feel the day as one exhale of a larger form. The overwhelm thins because the 'me' carrying it is part of the expansion, not its owner. Then return to the next small task.

The Meal Offering

BHAGAVAD GĪTĀ 4.24 (LAKSHMANJOO MEALTIME YAJÑA) · GĪTĀ 4.24

The meal prayer: water in the palm, one verse, and eating becomes worship.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Lakshmanjoo read brahman throughout as Lord Śiva. Four things are named — the offering, the oblation, the fire, the goal — and all four are the same substance. What you take is offered to Śiva; what you offer is itself Śiva; the stomach is Śiva's residence. The logic collapses the distance between eater, food and eaten into one taste.

HOW TO USE IT

Before the first bite: put a little water in the palm, look at the food, and say the verse once. Then eat as if the meal is being offered into a fire — slowly, without hurry. The feeling to find: gratitude with heat. Nothing extra; the verse does the whole work.

asmadrūpa samāviṣṭaḥ svātmanātma nivāraṇe | śivaḥ karotu nijayā namaḥ śaktyā tatātmane ‖ śiva, having entered the form that is myself, bows — by his own power — to śiva, for the removal of the obstacle that is himself.

Śiva Bows to Śiva

SOMANANDA, ŚIVADṚṢṬI 7.103 (MEALTIME LORE) · ŚIVADṚṢṬI 7.103 (PROVISIONAL)

The obstacle on the plate is also Śiva. Say it before food.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The whole Trika in one bow: the one who bows, the one bowed to, the obstacle being removed, and the power doing the removing are all Śiva. Nothing is outside the recognition — not even the thing that blocks it. Lakshmanjoo taught this verse alongside the mealtime practice.

HOW TO USE IT

Say it silently as the food arrives. The 'obstacle' can be anything — the craving, the guilt, the person you're eating with. Name it, then let the verse dissolve it. Feeling-tip: the moment of placing should feel like relief, like putting something down.

The Sense-Goddesses Offer Bhairava

चिन्मयमानन्दभैरवं वन्दे

ātmīyaviṣayabhogairindriyadevyaḥ sadā hṛdambhoje | abhipūjayanti yaṃ taṃ cinmayamānandabhairavaṃ vande with feasts of their own sense-objects, the sense-goddesses ever worship, in the heart-lotus, him — the consciousness-made bliss-bhairava: i praise.

The Sense-Goddesses Offer Bhairava

DEHASTHA V.5 · V.5

Every taste is already a pūjā happening in the heart.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Dehastha inverts the usual charge against the senses: the senses are goddesses (indriya-devyāḥ), and their enjoyment of their objects is continuous worship of the Bhairava made of consciousness. Eating is the oldest form of practice — the offering is already being made in the heart-lotus.

HOW TO USE IT

At the first bite, feel the heart-lotus (just behind the centre of the chest) as the altar and the flavour as the flower landing on it. Three bites only — overdoing it kills the taste. The feeling: gratitude with heat. The sense is honoured as a goddess, not supervised as a thief.

Devouring Māyā as Food

मायीयकालनियतिरागाद्याहारतर्पिताः / चरन्ति सुखिनो नाथ भक्तिमन्तो जगत्तटे

māyīyakālaniyatirāgādyāhāratarpitāḥ / caranti sukhino nātha bhaktimanto jagattaṭe o nātha, your devotees roam happy on the shore of the world, filled and satisfied by consuming māyā, time, fate and desire themselves.

Devouring Māyā as Food

UTPALADEVA, ŚIVASTOTRĀVALĪ 15.2 · 15.2

The devotee's menu: māyā, time, niyati, desire — eaten for breakfast.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse is a mealtime paradox: the devotees are tarpitāḥ, sated, by consuming māyīya, kāla, niyati, rāgādi — the very forces that starve everyone else. What the world treats as hunger (desire, fate, time) is their food. They roam happy on the shore of the world, having eaten the ocean.

HOW TO USE IT

Before or after a meal, when desire is loudest: name it as the course — māyā, time, fate, desire — and eat it. The hunger is the menu. Feeling-tip: the wanting transforms into satedness mid-sentence; that flip is the verse working.

Waiting

in the in-between

I Don't Mind

viṣamastho 'pi svastho 'pi rudann api hasann api / gambhīro 'pi vicitto 'pi bhaveyaṃ bhaktitaḥ prabho in crisis or at ease, weeping or laughing, grave or unhinged — by devotion, lord, let me be so.

I Don't Mind

UTPALADEVA, ŚIVASTOTRĀVALĪ 16.8 · 16.8

The api-chain refuses resolution: everything is allowed.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse piles up opposites with 'api' (even): viṣama/sthāna (crisis/peace), rudann/hasann (weeping/laughing), gambhīro/vicitta (grave/unhinged). Devotion is not the absence of any of them; it is what holds them. The prayer does not ask for calm — it asks to be devotion through whatever arrives.

HOW TO USE IT

Use it when waiting has turned into agitation — a queue, a delay, a message that won't come. Say it once inwardly. Don't wait for composure: the very mess is the place where devotion can be. Feeling-tip: the shoulders drop half a millimetre; that's the api doing its work.

anubhūyāsamīśāna pratikarma kṣaṇāt kṣaṇam / bhavatpūjāmṛtāpānamadāsvādamahāmudam o lord, may i experience, moment by moment, in every action, the great joy of drinking the nectar of your worship.

In Every Action

UTPALADEVA, ŚIVASTOTRĀVALĪ 17.19 · 17.19

The in-between moment becomes the practice itself.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Utpaladeva prays for the taste of worship inside every action — not more ritual, but the nectar of pūjā in the ordinary. 'Moment by moment' (kṣaṇāt kṣaṇam) is the whole method: the repeated return of attention. Waiting is full of kṣaṇas — this verse makes them the site of the drink.

HOW TO USE IT

At any transition or pause: say it once, then take one breath as if that breath were the nectar. Don't manufacture joy — notice the small lift that a pause already gives. Three pauses, three sips, and the waiting has changed colour.

saṃsāra is not, in truth, for body-holders — of bondage, what news? bondage never truly is for anyone — so for the free, liberation-rite is false. this error-maker is rope-snake-shadow-ghost-delusion. abandon nothing; grasp nothing; live healthy, staying as you are.

THE GUIDE

Abandon Nothing, Grasp Nothing

ABHINAVAGUPTA, ANUTTARĀṢṬIKĀ V.2 · ANU-P02 V.2

The waiting instruction par excellence: don't add, don't subtract, just stay.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse dismantles bondage itself — saṃsāra never truly was; the bondage-story is the rope-snake-shadow ghost of māyā. Then the instruction in four beats: mā kiṃcit tyaja (abandon nothing), mā gṛhāṇa (grasp nothing), vihara (live), svastho yathāvasthitaḥ (stay as you are). Waiting is where the mind most wants to add or subtract.

HOW TO USE IT

In the queue, the delay, the silence: say the last line — 'live healthy, staying as you are.' The restlessness wants to grab something or drop something; the verse forbids both. Feeling-tip: the hands open and close once, then rest; the waiting is now the living.

na kiñcid eva lokānāṃ bhavadāvaraṇaṃ prati yat kiṃ cid eva bhūtānāṃ there are two classes found in this universe: one class is of ordinary people, and another are those who are thy devotees.

Two Classes of People

UTPALADEVA, ŚIVASTOTRĀVALĪ 16.1 · 16.1

In the queue: two kinds of people, and you know which you are.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse is a quiet census — only two classes, ordinary folk and bhaktas — with no third category of the merely interested. It's a wry re-classification of the crowd: everyone waiting with you belongs to one of two groups, and the difference isn't visible from the outside. The devotee smiles at the census.

HOW TO USE IT

Use it in any crowd — the queue, the train, the meeting. Run the census once: two classes. Then check which one is noticing the census. Feeling-tip: a small private smile; nobody can tell from the outside which class you're in — that's the point.

with you as lord, all-pervading in own self — therefore no talk of transmigration-fear. even though hard-to-bear suffering, delusion, terror-causing karma-hosts are present.

No Fear-Talk

ABHINAVAGUPTA, BHAIRAVASTAVA 3 · BH-P03

The suffering is conceded; the fear-talk is not.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse does not deny suffering — it concedes the karma-hosts (durdharaduḥkhavimohatrāsavidhāyiṣu) — but denies the fear of saṃsāra, because the Lord is all-pervading in the self. Suffering can be present without being feared; the fear-talk is what stops.

HOW TO USE IT

When negative, say it and let the concession stand: yes, this is hard; and the fear of it is separate from the pain itself. The verse splits them. Feeling-tip: the pain stays, the story about the pain thins. That thinning is the verse working.

much time dwelling with you has passed — alas, in this very moment! what, what has not been done by you for me, for the sake of serving the excellent guru! again and again i, whose body has attained the incomparable divine plane — yet indeed i forget you. therefore, by you let there be no further staying-away!

Forgetting, and the Final Plea

ABHINAVAGUPTA, PAÑCAŚLOKĪ 5 · PAN-P05

The illness plea: you've done everything for me — so don't stay away now.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Pañcaślokī 5 turns on time and forgetting: much time has passed with him; nothing has not been done for you; and still you forget him. The plea — let there be no further staying-away — is asked not from desert but from a record of grace: you owe nothing, he has paid everything, so his absence now would be the only unkindness left.

HOW TO USE IT

When ill and feeling forgotten: say the whole verse as the complaint it is — 'what has not been done by you for me?' — and let the last line be the request. Feeling-tip: the forgetting is admitted first (you forgot him); the plea is fair because of that. One round, then rest.

when will that glorious day come to me, my lord — your lotus-foot dust anointing my hair — that i may dance the dance begun from the endless?

Dance with the Foot-Dust

UTPALADEVA, ŚIVASTOTRĀVALĪ 5.2 · 5.2

For the sickbed: the day I dance with your foot-dust on my head.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse is pure longing — kadā, when: when will my hair be rubbed with the dust of your lotus feet, and I dance a dance begun from the boundless? The foot-dust is the classical sign of total surrender — the head as the lowest place, the master's foot as the highest — and the dance is what follows: not recovery as return to normal, but entry into a dance that starts at the infinite.

HOW TO USE IT

From the sickbed, say it as a question — kadā, when — without demanding the answer today. Picture only the dust on the hair; the dance can wait. Feeling-tip: longing itself becomes the posture; the verse sanctifies not-yet.

inside the body, sought by me always — you as self, and the self is never seen.
whatever is seen is you alone, that.

Whatever Is Seen Is You

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.3 · V.3

When the body hurts: whatever is seen — even this — is you.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse performs a swap: I search for you inside the body as the self, and the self is never seen — but whatever IS seen, tvameva tat, is you alone. Applied to illness: the pain, the weakness, the scanned body — none of it is the self, and all of it is him. The sick body becomes the visible half of an invisible lord.

HOW TO USE IT

When pain or weakness is present: look at it once — the ache as an object — and name it 'seen: you.' Not as denial of pain but as address change. Feeling-tip: the pain stays but loses its claim to be yours; it's his visible side, and visibility is already grace.

Victory at the Door

ABHINAVAGUPTA, PAÑCAŚLOKĪ 2 · PAN-P02

The prayer of rejoicing: only speech to offer, and it flashes at the door.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The devotee has nothing but speech, and asks that it flash at the Lord's door, faultless, repeating 'victory, victory to Maheśa'. Then the real request: make me to have a protector. Śaraṇāgati is not becoming strong but being held — and the rejoicing is the holding already underway.

HOW TO USE IT

When something good has happened — or when you want to rejoice anyway — say it aloud if possible. The repetition of 'jaya jaya maheśa' is the celebration. Feeling-tip: the smile arrives before the words; let it. The verse is permission to be happy in his name.

Mad with the Nectar of Devotion

UTPALADEVA, ŚIVASTOTRĀVALĪ 1.5 · 1.5

Devotion as intoxication: the positive state has a name.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse names the ones who have drunk bhakti-rasa (devotion's nectar) and gone mad (unmadāḥ) — and their sign: though apparently alone, they are always with him; though without a second, they are not lonely. The 'madness' is the joy that comes from drinking the right thing.

HOW TO USE IT

When the joy is already there, say it and name it: this is the nectar. Don't analyse the joy; toast it. Feeling-tip: the slight giddiness the verse describes is the actual state — lean into it, don't explain it to anyone.

The Wheel of Powers

VASUGUPTA, SPANDAKĀRIKĀ 1.1 · SPANDAKĀRIKĀ 1.1

The opening hymn: the world blinks, and we sing to the one who blinks it.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The Spandakārikā opens with a hymn to the pulse: by the Lord's opening and closing (onmeṣa-nimeṣa — his blink) the world dissolves and arises. The 'wheel of powers' is the circle of śaktis through which consciousness manifests. To sing is to join the pulse rather than resist it.

HOW TO USE IT

Recite when the world feels vivid — when colours are sharp, when music lands, when the pulse is obvious. It's a song of participation. Feeling-tip: blink with the verse; the world dissolving and arising on each blink is literal enough.

Enjoy Lordhood

ABHINAVAGUPTA, ANUTTARĀṢṬIKĀ V.8 · ANU-P08 V.8

The last verse of the Anuttarāṣṭikā: enjoy Lordhood.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse gathers the whole world — real, unreal, stained, pure — into the mirror of consciousness as the light of form arising from one's own awareness. Then the instruction: bhaja viśveśvaratvam, enjoy the Lordhood of the universe. Lordhood is not power over things; it is the taste of seeing them as yourself. This is rejoicing as a metaphysical claim.

HOW TO USE IT

When things are going well — or when you want to rejoice anyway: say the last clause aloud. Lordhood is a tasting, not a trophy. Feeling-tip: the chest opens, the world turns slightly luminous; that luminance is svānubhavādhirūḍha, mounted on your own experience. Don't explain it to anyone.

from your waking comes his waking; from your sleep comes his merging. hence all is of your nature — the world, both real and unreal.

From Your Waking, His Waking

MAHOPADEŚAVIṂŚATIKĀ V.11 · V.11

Your sleep does not stop the world — it feeds it.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Two transfers: prabodha (waking) passes from you to him, laya (dissolution) from his sleep to the world. Because his waking enlivens the world and his sleep dissolves it, everything is tvad-ātmaka, of your nature. Sleep is not the end of practice but its most global act: when you sleep you participate in his laya.

HOW TO USE IT

Last line of the day. Lie down and take one awake minute: you are about to do what he does at night. Don't stay awake doing this — fall asleep inside the thought. Feeling-tip: as the eyes close, feel the day's edges get soft, 'unreal' — that softening is sadasadātmakam. If anxious at night, this dissolves the day rather than reviewing it.

In Sleep, When the Outer Range Perished

VIJÑĀNA BHAIRAVA V.75 · V.75

The instruction for the moment before sleep: go there by mind.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Three conditions: sleep that has not yet arrived; once the outer field has died. In that gap, to be gone to by mind, parā devī, the supreme Goddess, shines — not is-made. The verse locates practice in the dying of the outer senses, where consciousness is neither awake nor asleep, and names what appears there as Śakti herself.

HOW TO USE IT

At lights-out, on your back, one hand on the belly. Wait for the outer field to fade — sounds go dull, images slow. Then instead of following sleep passively, send the mind as an arrow to the heart-centre, once. Then release. The Goddess-feel is a hum or warmth behind the chest; if images swarm you have grasped — release and let the hum carry. Single-shot: no repetitions.

At Your Cool Feet

UTPALADEVA, ŚIVASTOTRĀVALĪ 9.14 · 9.14

The sleep prayer: the cool feet are the peace after the fever of wanting.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Utpaladeva asks when he will lie down free of every object (aśeṣaviṣaya — no grasping left), settled in undiminished glory (aśūnya śrī), at the two cool lotus feet (śītāṅghri-kuśeśaya). 'Free of every object' is not blankness but the rest that remains when the mind stops reaching. The cool feet are the peace of Śiva.

HOW TO USE IT

In bed. Say it once, then let the image of the two cool feet form under the mind's eye — no details needed, just the coolness. The feeling to find: the fever of the day dropping. If the mind races, return to the coolness, not the words.

Bliss Is the Forgotten Treasure

ABHINAVAGUPTA, ANUTTARĀṢṬIKĀ V.4 · ANU-P04 V.4

The sleep verse: bliss as burden-lowering, the forgotten treasure.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The verse defines bliss by negation — not wealth-drunkenness, not sensual pleasure, not spectacle-light — then gives the positive: harṣa like bhārāvatāra, the lowering of a burden, is the prāpti of vismṛta-nidhi, the forgotten treasure of the non-dual state. Falling into sleep is that burden-lowering: the day's weight set down at the door.

HOW TO USE IT

In bed, say it and feel the day's weight as the literal bhāra being lowered. Bliss here is not an event but an unloading. Feeling-tip: the shoulders drop a centimetre deeper each line; by the last line the bed has the treasure under it.
